Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 2-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 2-4, the particles are limited; however, it is not clear from these or from claim 1 that the particles are actually being positively recited as elements of the claimed device. Clarification and correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-7,9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kwon-6207400.

Kwon discloses a device having a reservoir with particles which are accelerated to speeds of 100-3000 m/sec. A trigger would inherently be actuated to cause the force necessary to fire the particles through the skin. A means to analyze the analyte and a means for promoting the efflux of fluid from the body are also included. See col. 2 lines 4-46; col. 5 lines 12-62; col 6 lines 30-49.

Claims 1-4 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bellhouse, et al.-5630796.

Bellhouse discloses a device having a reservoir with particles which can be fired into skin at a speed of 200-2500 m/sec. The annular surface of the hood 36 would be the promoting means as it could be pressed against tissue in a region surrounding the region fired upon.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kwon-'400 in view of Eppstein, et al.-5458140.

Kwon discloses the invention as claimed with the exception of the ultrasound. Eppstein discloses that it was known to use ultrasound to promote the extraction of fluids from the body. It would have been obvious to have provided Kwon's device with ultrasound in order to facilitate the extraction of the fluids from the body.
